Anna has too many to mention - most of her volunteer work was with the police department in Florida, she did charity projects in Guatemala

She was a Boy Scout leader - taught the medical merit badge

YMCA - Domestic Violence Children's advocate -she is still helping out.

Helping hand award for saving someone's life, she did CPR for a heart attack person - they lived.

Has the nominee overcome hardships, obstacles or challenges? Please list.

Anna is from South Africa and moving from that country to the USA was a struggle, it was quite the culture shock. Her and her parents moved to Alabama then to Florida. Living in a Right to work state was quite an eye opening experience.

She moved to Seattle specifically to join the Carpenters union.

Leaving her family in Florida was very hard, however she sees that being a union member has changed her life, for the better!

What would you say the nominee likes about the position in which they work?

She gets to learn everyday, working with her hands and staying busy at work, she often reflects on some choices she made career wise. Being a carpenter is what she truly enjoys doing!

It is hard to keep up with all the programs Anna is involved in. She stepped right up to involving herself with the apprentice meet-up at local 30, she is the recording secretary. She attends the monthly Sisters in the Brotherhood meeting. She is active in helping out on the community projects they involve themselves with. She is also a mentor to a couple of apprentices who attend.

Speaking of mentoring, Anna is a mentee in the University of Washington study of 'Safety & Health Empowerment for Women in Trades (SHEWT)'. Anna has a background in protective services, I think she should be a mentor, not so much a mentee.

Anna has jumped right in helping with the Anti-right to work campaign, too. If there ever was an apprentice who put their heart & soul into their career - Anna is that person. She has so much passion for what she does and helping others succeed. She is a positive role model for other women.
